

Final Report for the Hubbell Trading Post NHS Heritage Orchards Phase II
June 2012

The Hubbell Trading Post Orchard Restoration was designed to replant some heritage trees at Hubbell Trading Post National Monument. Kanin Routson recommended many varieties that could be and could have been grown in the area (Table 1). The park decided which trees it would like to plant in the park. Trees were purchased in Feb 2010 from Willis Orchard Company in Berlin, Georgia. The list of trees purchased is in Table 2 below. Trees were again purchased according to the wishes of the park in May 2012 (Table 3). The park received all of these trees and was responsible for planting them.

Table 1: Heirloom varieties of fruit trees for Hubbell (From Kanin Routson)
