

Kingman Hikes

Bull Mountain

- Distance: 4 miles on an out and back trail (Total Distance 8 miles)
- Elevation gained: 1230ft
- Difficulty rating: 3
 - At some parts can be steep and tricky so having the right shoes will mitigate any struggle one has. At some parts the trail gets steep but eventually will level out. No dogs are allowed on this hike

Camp Beale Loop

- Distance: 3.2 miles on a loop trail
- Elevation gained: 580ft
- Difficulty rating: 2
 - This trail gives hikers the chance to see wildlife and is accessible all year around. Dogs are allowed but must be on a leash.

Cherum Peak Trail

- Distance: 5.6 miles on an out and back trail (Total distance 11.2 miles)
- Elevation gained: 1282
- Difficulty rating: 3
 - Easy to follow and has nice views at the end. This trail can require some careful maneuvering if snow or ice are on it. Dogs are allowed on this trail but must be kept on leash.

Hayden Peak Summit Trail

- Distance: 5.5 miles on an out and back trail (Total distance 11 miles)
- Elevation gained: 1758ft
- Difficulty rating: 4
 - During certain months of the year the trail can have snow and ice on it. During this trek. Once a hiker reaches the top they are rewarded with beautiful views. Dogs are not allowed on this trail.

Hualapai Mountain via Potato Patch

- Distance: 5 miles on a loop trail
- Elevation gained: 1097ft
- Difficulty rating: 3
 - A great leg burner for the intermediate level hiker! Getting to the top of this hike is worth the challenging climb. You can pick up a map at the ranger station at the base of this hike. This hike has stunning views and also allows dogs as long as they are on a leash. Don't forget the sun protection and plenty of water.

Little Hualapai Trail

- Distance: 3.4 miles on an out and back trail (Total Distance 6.8 miles)
- Elevation gained: 666ft
- Difficulty rating: 2
 - Great beginner trail if one is looking to explore and get out more! The best times are to use it between the months of September to June, hikers will enjoy the wildflowers and great views along the way. No dogs allowed on the trail.

Monolith Garden Trail

- Distance: 7 miles on a loop trail
- Elevation gained: 557ft
- Difficulty rating: 2
 - Even though it is a little further than other "2" rated hikes, this is friendly to all levels! This hike offers wildflowers and is best to hike during the winter months in Arizona. Dogs on a leash are allowed on this hike.

White Cliffs Wagon Trail

- Distance: 2.4 miles on an out and back trail (Total distance 4.8 miles)
- Elevation gained: 324ft
- Difficulty rating: 2
 - Best used from September to April before the heat hits this part of Arizona. Does not allow dogs. This 4x4 trail has so much to offer, and is great for any level hiker. Highly recommend checking this one out on a cloudy day.