HOMECOMING 2015

Arnold Air Society

This weekend was Homecoming weekend at Northern Arizona University, where we also celebrated our football team's 100th anniversary. Active members of the David Lewis "Bullit" Curtis-Robinson's Arnold Air Society Squadron were put in charge of escorting dignitaries in the parade; including everyone from University President Rita Cheng to Flagstaff Mayor Jerry Nabours.

The "Bullit" Squadron Commander AAS C Maj Johnson has made it a mission to increase the impact the Society has on our community, encouraging regular service events and fundraisers. The "Bullit" Squadron represents the highest standard of cadets and have upheld that standard with actives by the Color Guard, Drill and Saber Teams, and in various clubs on and off campus. By proudly and effectively representing Arnold Air Society and our “Bullit” Squadron, we are leaving a lasting impression of professionalism and selfishness that is respected by those we encounter.

Homecoming 2015

Northern Arizona University kicked off Homecoming in true Lumberjack style with Flannels and Flapjacks. Students were invited to North Quad to enjoy free flapjacks for showing up in their flannel pajamas. Along with the pancakes, students were invited to participate in games and win prizes.

Homecoming weekend at NAU wouldn't be complete without the traditional Tequila Sunrise. Tequila Sunrise is an event in which the bars in Flagstaff Stay open throughout the entire day. Students and Faculty alike join together in this festivity of day drinkers. From 5AM on Saturday to 5 AM on Sunday the bars serve drinks to those who dare. By noon on Saturday the streets are filled with stumbling students. This however is one of many Homecoming Traditions.

On Saturday morning, for those that weren't 21 and participating in the day drinking, there was a tailgate in the Dome parking lot which lasted until 3:30 PM. Different clubs of NAU showed up to show their pride and have some fun with their fellow Lumberjacks. Food, games and fun were all offered for the duration of the event.

NAU's Lumberjack football team put on a show for spectators. NAU put up 21 points in the first quarter to lead them to a decisive 52-36 win over Weber States.

Det. 027 cadets were pleased to be able to participate in the Homecoming festivities in many ways. Pictured above is the Color Guard as they prepare to proudly display the colors, marching the entire parade route. Many cadets also volunteered to march in front of the dignitaries in the parade displaying signs while others helped to direct traffic and parking. Later in the day, at the football game, cadets showed up to help sell concessions to hungry game-watchers and fundraised several hundred dollars for the Detachment.

Family Weekend BBQ 2015

Saturday, October 3, was a day of fun for the cadet wing and their families. Cadets brought their friends and family to a Detachment BBQ filled with good food and great fun. Delicious burgers, Frisbee, and of course the annual Crud tournament made for a wonderful day.
